

ACCOUNTING

Any accountant knows the value of consulting a professional for the most thorough and highest quality service possible. For the same reasons your clients deserve an expert handling their finances, your accounting firm deserves expert technology consulting.

According to a survey by the AICPA, less than half of accountants say their IT strategy is well-aligned to their business goals. While busy providing quality and attentive services to your clients, there is limited time for updating technology or finding better solutions.

COMPLIANCE

Compliance guidelines are important factors to consider when evaluating technology services, especially for companies that regularly deal with confidential personal data, such as medical, accounting, or financial information. Companies in these industries have a moral duty and legal obligation to properly protect their data.

Failure to comply with regulations established by regulators such as the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC), the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), or the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) can result in penalties, fines, or court actions; as well as harming the reputation of your organization.

As technology becomes increasingly prevalent in businesses of all kinds, there is a growing need for compliance expertise. Sector 7 is experienced in supporting proactive company compliance through employee training, providing secure devices, firewalls, backups, and much more. In addition to knowing current mandates, we stay updated on changes in compliance regulation to best serve our clients.

In the event of an issue or non-compliance, our quick response times, network monitoring, and thorough documentation assure our clients the most timely, diligent reaction possible. Our methods are cost-effective, without sacrificing the quality of protection or support.

Our clients are our focus; Sector 7 isn't just a technology provider, but a business partner. We work to help your company succeed in every way possible, including fulfilling the legal obligations required to ensure your success.

According to the 2017 Thycotic Hacker Survey Report, 85% of participants named human error as the main cause of data breaches, meaning increasing employee awareness and knowledge is just as important as implementing security software.

EDUCATION

Educational facilities have the monumental responsibility of developing the minds of our youth. Only by partnering with technology can schools offer the experiences that our future generations require and deserve to be successful.

Today's average student is no stranger to technology, as many are exposed to smartphones, tablets, TV, and computers within their homes. According to a survey by the Erikson Institute, "56% of parents believed that their child's technology use promotes school readiness and 54% associate technology use with having an impact on success in school."

Working with software and devices in a monitored setting, like school, teaches students how to handle technology responsibly and effectively. These skills are expected of the average employee; it would be a disservice to our students to neglect them that knowledge when preparing them for the "real world."

Sector 7 is experienced in providing technology services to educational facilities, and ensuring as little downtime as possible. Our technicians are available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week and work locally to provide timely support.

We work within your budget and if needed, we cooperate with any current technical staff to provide a reliable network most suitable to your school's needs, including regular backups and security measures. A partnership with Sector 7 will alleviate the stress of technology and benefit the most important people in education, the students.

HEALTHCARE

Approximately 7 out of 10 consumers trust their healthcare providers to keep their personal information and data safe, according to Healthcare IT News. Antiquated systems and procedures increase the chances of a data breach while damaging the overall patient experience, through disorganization and human error.

Implementing new technology or upgrading old systems is the safest and most efficient way to run a medical office, while improving the daily lives of healthcare staff and patients alike.

Time that is currently spent on filing, paperwork, or technical difficulties could be dedicated to client needs, with the right support. Embracing technology creates a secure, dynamic workplace. LAW

The future of practicing law resides in the expansion of technology into the offices and daily lives of lawyers across the country. Adopting new technology, like remote access, and updating current technology is instrumental to the success and security of any legal firm.

Daily technology use strengthens and expedites the most critical resources to a law office, such as communications, research, security, documentation, and most importantly, client relations.
